Thought for the Week

"BUT..."

(Ephesians 2 verses 4 and 13)

I have over my lifetime gained a collection of unwelcome and unwanted nicknames. At my Grammar school it was 'Gumby Gore', at Portsmouth Poly it was 'Mr P', at Spurgeon's College it was 'Mr Predictable' and at William Levick school it is 'Rev'd Chaos'. Nicknames are peculiar things. I honestly don't like any of them for though they are in one sense accurate, I also know that I am more than what they say about me.

The title for this 'Thought for the Week' won't surprise you and you could even say that it is predictable thus confirming my College nickname as being true. BUT..., and this is an important BUT..., that's ok. In fact, this may be one of my favourite words for this year and though I wouldn't want you to start counting every time I use it, that might be a useful exercise.

The truth is, is that this should be one of the words in our Bibles which we should both memorise and apply in our lives each and every day.

BUT..., reminds us that we are never to omit God from any equation. To forget or not apply him to any situation is to deprive yourself of your greatest asset. To forget or not apply him to any situation is to hem yourself in without giving yourself the remotest chance of escape. To forget or not apply him to any situation is to commit the sin which Israel committed again and again and for which they were sent into Exile.

BUT..., reminds us that with God nothing is impossible. BUT..., reminds us that we can do all things through him who strengthens us. BUT..., reminds us that the Word of the Lord endures for ever. BUT..., reminds us that we can add whichever promise we like to this and know it can be fulfilled for us.

I love the idea of BUT... because it fills me with hope, with peace, with comfort, with strength and especially with love for this is what our God is like.

May you know the power of BUT..., in your life this day, this week and for always.

Andy

(ps I used the word BUT..., 9 times in this 'Thought for the Week', or 11 if you include the title and in this ps too, just for your information!!)
